The Vinyl Cafe connection

The Story Exchange is a regular feature on CBC's Vinyl Cafe. Host & author Stuart McLean reads letters from listeners ("it has to be a short story & it has to be a real story, but after that it can be anything at all...")

Yesterday afternoon's edition had a theme of libraries. And the Story Exchange letter was from our own Kristin Auer — about her son Marcus starting school in a new country and the librarian who helped settle him into his new home, Steve Carroll.

Of course, the only thing more wonderful than Stuart McLean's kwerky plot twists is his delivery of a story. So by the end of Kirstin's letter, tears welled as Stuart retold Steve's care for Marcus and then his passing from brain cancer.

Thanks, Kerstin, for sharing a wonderful story, and reminding us about a man who touched many in this community. You can get the podcast of yesterday's show by going to www.cbc.ca/vinylcafe

New branding for Upper Nicola

To improve communication with members and others, the First Nation community of Upper Nicola has launching new branding and an updated website.

The new branding features a red-tailed hawk — a bird important to the culture and history of Upper Nicola. It also uses colours taken from and inspired by the land around Douglas Lake. It has been designed to both appeal to and represent the people of Upper Nicola as well as others that they work with.

The website, which has been built alongside the new brand, uses modern web design and tools to improve member communication and make it easier to find out more about Upper Nicola.

"The new branding and website build on many of the things that are important to us," said Chief Dan Manuel. "There is always a lot going on in our territory, and this gives us a platform to continue to improve information-sharing and communication in the future."

Argument

After my husband and I had a huge argument, we ended up not talking to each other for days. Finally, on the third day, he asked where one of his shirts was. "Oh," I said, "So now you're speaking to me." He looked confused, "What are you talking about?" "Haven't you noticed I haven't spoken to you for three days?" I challenged. "No," he said, "I just thought we were getting along."
