‘Farm Fresh’ lingers

The same week that City Council rescinded the Country with Attitude direction of the re-branding, the widely offending ‘farm-fresh’ ad came out in Gold Country’s visitors’ guide. We’ll just have to bear it this season...

Tick time

Ticks are most often found in tall grass and wooded areas so covering up before you head outdoors and checking for ticks after being outdoors are simple things that go a long way to prevent tick bites.

The most common tick species in the Interior Health region is the Wood Tick (Dermacentor andersoni), which does not carry the Lyme disease bacteria. The Wood Tick can carry other diseases such as Rocky Mountain spotted fever, although it is very rare. Some ticks also have toxins that can cause temporary muscle weakness and paralysis if attached for several days, but the symptoms fade once the tick is removed. Signs of many tick-borne infections can be similar and include fever, headache, muscle pain, and rash. FMI www.healthlinkbc.ca/health-files/hfile01.stm

End of the beetle kill?

The Forest Practices Board issued a report this week on the forest industry’s harvesting of beetle-killed timber, confirming that industry has been meeting government’s expectations for concentrating harvesting on dead pine trees, but that the harvest of other kinds of trees is increasing more than expected in some areas of the province.

Basically, the switch from harvesting dead pine trees to live non-pine trees means the mid-term timber supply is starting to be cut now and not 5-10 years in the future. And the more live trees that are harvested now, the lower the sustainable harvest level will be after the salvage program is finished.

The situation in beetle-affected forests is changing quickly. The board is encouraging government to re-evaluate decisions about what should be harvested in those areas, taking into account the current dynamics of salvage harvesting.

Frank & Joe Two 80-year-old men had been friends all of their lives. When it was clear that Frank was dying, Joe visited him every day. One day Joe said, "Frank, we both loved playing golf all our lives. Please do me one favour: when you get to heaven, somehow you must let me know if there's golf there." Frank looked up at Joe from his deathbed and said, "Joe, you've been my best friend for many years. If it's at all possible, I'll do this favour for you." Shortly after that, Frank died.

A few weeks later, Joe was awakened from a sound sleep by a blinding flash of white light and a voice calling out to him, "Joe, Joe." "Who is it," asked Joe, sitting up suddenly. "Who is it?" "Joe-- it's me, Frank" "You're not Frank. Frank just died." "I'm telling you, it's me, Frank," insisted the voice. "Frank, where are you?" "In heaven," replied Frank. "I have some really good news and a little bad news." "Tell me the good news first," said Joe. "The good news," Frank said with joy and enthusiasm, "is that there is golf in heaven. Better yet, all of our old buddies who died before me are here, too. Even better than that, we're all young again. Better still, it's always summertime and it never rains. And best of all, we can play golf all we want, and we never get tired. And we get to play with all the greats of the past."

"That's fantastic," said Joe "It's beyond my wildest dreams! So what's the bad news?" "You're in my foursome this Saturday"
