High water on the Nicola River

The City of Merritt has been advised by the Ministry of Forests, Lands and Natural Resources that with the current weather trend, we can expect the Nicola River level to creep up, possibly resulting in increased seepage to low lying areas.

At this time, the Ministry predicts that flows will remain within the channel banks of the Nicola River, and so City officials don't anticipate any over-bank flooding within the City.

Residents living adjacent to the Nicola River may experience further infiltration into pipes and basements as a result of groundwater seepage and/or basement drain backups. Depending on the weather, changes to water flows could result in some localized flooding which would required pro-active flood protection along the river within the City.

Emergency Program Coordinator Sky McKeown urges residents living along the Nicola River, or traveling through the area, to be alert for potentially damaging flows or obstructions which should be reported to City Hall, (250)378-4224.

He also asks everyone to keep a respectful distance from river banks and keep your children and animals safe. And for residents to remain alert to further potential flooding levels as the current weather trend continues.

Line painting on the Coquihalla

With the warmer weather, the roads are swept and refreshing the lines begins. Line painting on the Coquihalla is scheduled to be completed by May 15th. This year, the Ministry of Transportation and line marking contractors will be testing a thicker application of the paint on sections of the highway to see if it improves the line durability.

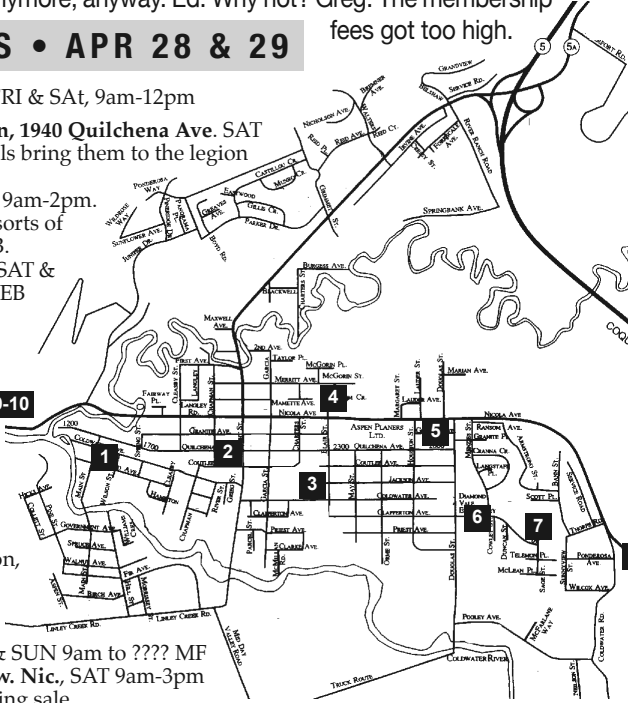

Winter maintenance, ie. snow plowing and sanding, cause significant erosion to lane markings. And with snowfall sometimes continuing into early May, the additional maintenance work means an additional impact on the lines.

Federal environmental regulations have required a move away from the resilient acrylic paints used in the past, to paints with lower Volatile Organic Compounds (VOCs) that are easier on the environment. The Ministry says they continue to test new types of paint and pavement marking technologies to try and identify options that are both long-lasting and environmentally-safe.
