Teachers' rotating strike: week 3

The next strike day in School District 58 will be Wednesday, June 11.

Yesterday, the BCTF said teachers will take a vote next Monday and Tuesday to decide whether or not to escalate job action, up and including a full-scale strike.

Heavens a dove!

You may have noticed the increase of doves in the city — to the point of residents complaining of noise from 'feral doves' to City of Merritt bylaw services.

The Nicola Naturalists have tracked the proliferation of an introduced species of dove, the Eurasian Collared Dove, and the decline of the native Mourning Dove.

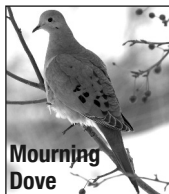

Mourning Doves are native residents of semi-arid regions of the US & southern Canada, especially where they can find large supplies of grain & livestock feed. In the Merritt area, Mourning Doves can be found year-round and can aggregate by the hundreds around cattle feedlots, or backyard feeders.

Eurasian Collared Doves are native to southern Asia & parts of southern Europe. They have spread or been accidentally introduced to many other areas as a popular cage bird. Feral populations were first reported in southern BC just a few years ago, and have rapidly become established breeders. This alien species shares much of the same food and habitat as the native Mourning Dove.

The Eurasian Collared Dove was first recorded in the 2009 Merritt Christmas Bird Count (with 14 sightings) and there are now a few hundred birds in the area (115 were sighted in the 2012 bird count).

The highest count of Mourning Doves was 441 in 2000 when there was an active feedlot in the count circle, and the numbers have been in decline since 2007, with just 80 in 2012. Whether this is due to reduced access to feedlots or competition with invading Eurasian Collared Doves is not yet known.

- No collar
- Spots on wings
- Mournful multi-syllable cooing "ooAAH cooo coo coo"

Eurasian Collared Dove

- Squarish tail with white bar on underside
- Obvious black collar
- No spots on wings
- Cooing calls, repeated 3-syllable "coo-COOO cup"

Q: Did you hear about the race between the lettuce and the tomato?
A: The lettuce was a "head" and the tomato was trying to "ketchup"!

Q: What did Bacon say to Tomato? A: Lettuce get together!

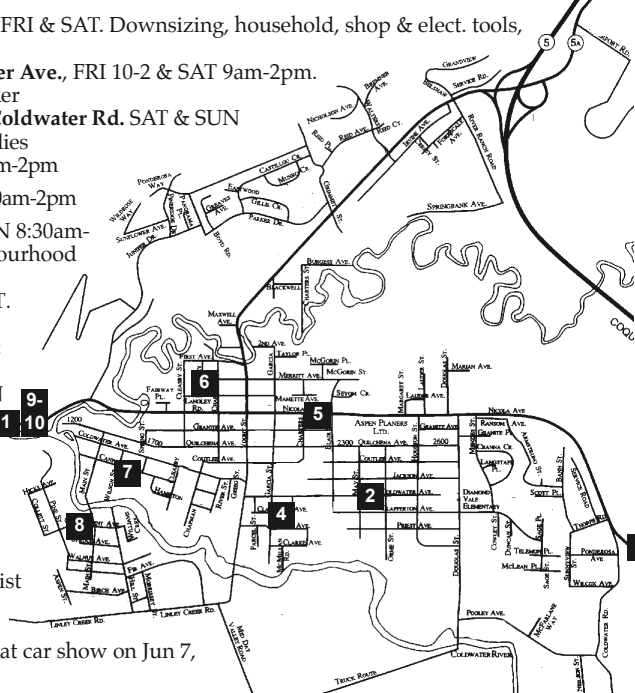

Q: Did you hear about the hungry clock? A: It went back four seconds.

Q: What do you get from a pampered cow? A: Spoiled milk.

Q: What do you call a three-footed aardvark? A: a yardvark!
