Nicola
Chiefs (L-R):
Marcel
Shackelly,
Harvey
McLeod,
Lee Spahan
& Aaron
Sam

Occupation Protestors from the Nicola Valley occupying the Premier's constituency office in West Kelowna are calling for supporters. Bring your drums & songs and join the 5 Nicola Chiefs and others who are standing up against the importation of biowaste into the Nicola Valley. Or stop by for a coffee and sign the petition.

The support is widening. The Union of BC Indian Chiefs' Grand Chief Stewart Phillip has announced his support of the Nicola Chiefs & protestors. And the Syilx (Okanagan) Nation joins him in this.

Lower Nicola Chief Aaron Sam said: "We're planning to stay here as long as it takes until we get a moratorium on biosolids coming in to the Nicola Valley."

Yesterday, they picketed in front of the office and loaded in bedding & food under the watch of the RCMP.

"The bio waste operations affect our Aboriginal Title & Rights. The Province of British Columbia is obligated to consult and accommodate us in relation to the impacts of bio waste operations on our Rights and Title," said Chief Sam.

Connect the Blue Dots

Blue Dot organizers in Merritt are gearing up for an event on Sunday, April 19 at NVIT, from 1pm-3pm. This national day of action is a way to show Canadians that lasting change happens when everyday people come together. Environmental groups from the Nicola Valley will talk about the importance of strong environmental policies and what they are doing to help the community.

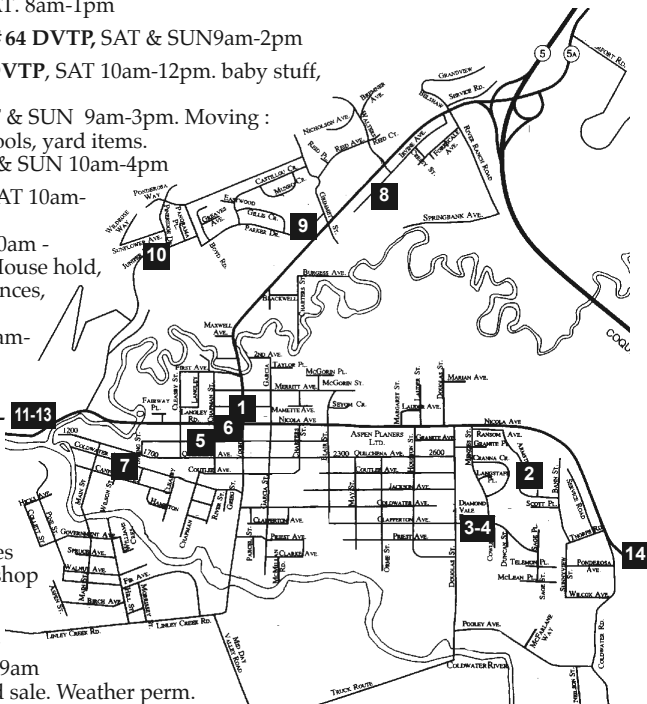

The idea is to entrench the right to clean air, fresh water & healthy food at each level of government, all the way up to recognition in the Charter of Rights.

So far, 70,532 Canadians have joined their local movement and 36 municipal governments have passed declarations recognizing the right to fresh air, clean water, and healthy food. To sign up, go to Blue Dot Movement- Merritt / Nicola Valley on Facebook & come out on Sunday.

Blind During court one busy day, the judge quietly passed the clerk a note reading: "Blind on right side, may be falling. Please call someone." Understandably alarmed, the clerk called for help before whispering to the judge that paramedics were on their way. Puzzled, the judge pointed to a sagging Venetian blind on the right side of the room and explained, "I was thinking maybe someone from maintenance!"
