TNRD votes in favour of Trans Mtn

The TNRD Board of Directors at their May 28 regular meeting voted in favour of supporting the proposed Trans Mountain pipeline expansion project.

The vote was prompted by a motion brought forward by Sun Peaks Mayor & TNRD Director, Al Raine, to address safety and environmental concerns around the increased reliance on rail for the transportation of petroleum products from source to market, particularly within the TNRD. Forecasts indicate that rail transportation of oil within Western Canada will increase from 200,000 tanker cars in 2013 to 700,000 tanker cars in 2016, and similar increases can be anticipated throughout the Regional District.

Director Raine also cited the “existing pipeline’s robust safety record in the Regional District over the past 60 years, including no significant incidents; the economic opportunities the project will bring to the TNRD through local investments, property taxes, landowner compensation and regional employment during the construction & operational phases.”

Not everyone supports the project

This news comes the same day as a new study from SFU & Living Oceans Society that says Kinder Morgan's Trans Mountain pipeline expansion project does not meet the Nat'l Energy Board's requirement of being in the public interest.

The study says the project, which would triple Kinder Morgan's capacity to carry oil between Alberta and Burnaby, could come at a net cost to Canada of between $4.1 billion and $22.1 billion.

Those costs are associated, not only with damage to the environment in the form of oil spills and greenhouse gas emissions, but also with building too much pipeline capacity, it says.

This latest study follows two other reports released last week that were similarly critical of the project, one from the City of Vancouver and one from the Tsleil-Waututh First Nation. www.cbc.ca

Invasive Species Action Month

To get BCers active in preventing and stopping the spread of harmful invasive species in the province, the government has officially declared the entire month of June as Invasive Species Action Month.

Invasive species threaten BC's environment, economy and society, including human health, but stopping invasive species is possible if we take action.

A new website has been set up at www.bcinvasivesmonth.ca, and the public is encouraged to post to social media using the hashtag #ActionOnInvasivesBC. You'll find info about how to prevent and stop the spread of invasive species in gardens, parks & forests, through sporting and camping activities, in lakes, rivers and oceans, and in cities, towns and across the province. There are links to events and activities being held by the Invasive Species Council of BC, regional invasive species committees, local governments and stewardship organizations across BC.

Doing What is right A man appeared before St. Peter at the pearly gates. "Have you ever done anything of particular merit?" St. Peter asked. Well, I can think of one thing," the man offered. " On a trip to the Black Hills out in South Dakota, I came upon a gang of high-testosterone bikers, who were threatening a young woman. I directed them to leave her alone, but they wouldn't listen. "So, I approached the largest and most heavily tattooed biker and smacked him on the head, kicked his bike over, ripped out his nose ring, and threw it on the ground." I yelled, "Now, back off!! Or you'll answer to me!" St. Peter was impressed: "When did this happen?" "Just a couple of minutes ago"

What are you doing in here? A set of jumper cables goes into a bar. The bartender sees them and asks, "Hey, what are you doing in here?" "Just want to have a drink and relax awhile," was the reply. "Well, all right. Just don't start anything!"
