Canada 150 planning well underway

There's already been lots of talk about how to celebrate Canada's sesquicentennial. But there are lots of ways to still get involved: many activities are already in the works, and others are still in the planning stage. And there could be more!

Canada Day promises to be action-packed, but there are all sorts of other opportunities, such as planting red & white flowers in your garden, flying the Canadian flag, and other challenges — poem-writing, fundraising events, or just tweaking annual events to recognize Canada 150.

Ideas in the planning stages include an antique quilt show at Murray Church, Brass Quintet concert, Old Courthouse gardening, multi-cultural workshop by the Metis Society, IndoCanadian cultural activity, Arts Council events, and opportunities to dress up in period costume.

To date, some events being 'penned in' are: Apr. 19 Canada on Screen hosted by Film Society & City; Apr. 22 An Evening in Black & White with pianist Bruce Vogt; May 30 Scott Woods Fiddle Band; June 9 Friday with Friends concert at Quilchena Hotel; June 21 National Aboriginal Day; June 25 dance studio recital.

"Canada 150 is an attitude — big events, small events, personal choices. It is a year in which to celebrate being Canadian. It's up to you to decide how involved you want to be. Suggestions, ideas, questions can be shared at committee meetings (1st & 3rd Wed. of the month, 1pm at the Civic Ctre) or dropped off in writing at the Civic Centre office. Please note that it is up to individuals and/or groups to organize activities — the committee is only a focus group that puts ideas and people together," said Canada 150 committee chair Councillor Kurt Christopherson.

Baillie House
presents...

1837: Along with a general feeling that the government was not democratic, the failure of the executive committee to maintain the confidence of the elected officials leads to violent but unsuccessful rebellions in Upper and Lower Canada. The leaders, W.L. Mackenzie (Reformers) and Louis-Joseph Papineau (Patriotes), both escape to the U.S.

"How's the diet going?" "Not good, I had eggs for breakfast."

"Scrambled?" "No, chocolate."

Imaginary Friend I am a first-grade teacher and a new empty nester. One night I was trying out an art project: making a person with simple materials. I took a coat hanger, attached a paper-plate face, put a shirt on the hanger and stuffed it. Then I sat it on the couch to see how it looked. Later that evening my son walked in the door, home for a surprise visit. Taking one look at my coat-hanger friend sitting on the couch, he said, "Mom, it's not that bad, is it?"
