Wifi @ Britton Creek

Britton Creek is the first rest area in the province to offer free Wi-Fi to the traveling public, providing motorists an opportunity to stop, take a rest and connect with family and friends. It has also just gone live at Glacier View, on Hwy 16 just north of Smithers.

Through a partnership with Telus and ICBC, the Province will install wi-fi at 4 additional rest areas, including Loon Lake, on Hwy 97C east of town.

BCHL serious about concussions

A Canadian company, HeadCheck Health Inc., has created reliable objective sideline concussion testing & management software for sports teams. This week, they signed an agreement with the BCHL which will cover all 17 teams.

During the season, teams will use HeadCheck to perform baseline, post-injury and return-to-play concussion tests. In addition to supplying BCHL with the HeadCheck technology, the company will also provide training, advanced analytics and reporting to help the league continue to improve their concussion management policies and procedures. Backed by evidence-based science, the technology tracks overall concussion health of athletes and provides instant comparison to past test performance. The system enables sports teams to use gold standard concussion tests, but is quicker to use than traditional paper assessments and can be run from any location within minutes. Lots of info about the app online at www.headcheckhealth.com

What did the bridge say to the locomotive? "Truss me."

The key to a good mailman joke... ..is the delivery...

Vacation I asked my wife what she fancied doing for a vacation this year. She said " I want to go walking where I can see Windmills, Bridges & the Eiffel Tower " So I took her miniature golfing.

What's the worst thing about generalizations? Everybody makes them all the time

What did the ancient Romans yell on the golf course? "IV!"
