Eight Seconds

The life and death of a cowboy
— How Ty Pozzobon's suicide forced bull riding to confront its quiet consensus crisis

"When Canadian bull rider Ty Pozzobon killed himself in January he turned a spotlight on the world's most dangerous sport. Only 25 years old, he was a son and brother, a newlywed, and a star on the rise. He would also become bull riding's first confirmed case of CTE. Among the factors that led to his suicide: concussions too numerous to count, stubbornness among cowboys to acknowledge the dangers of head trauma, and lack of consistent and fitting medical oversight to protect bull riders from themselves and the near-ton animals they compete against Marty Klinkenberg spent the summer with Pozzobon's closest colleagues on the professional bull-riding tour to explain how a way of life in the West threatens the health and safety of men who do it for love, and how the young cowboy from Merritt, B.C., could be the catalyst for change the sport desperately needs."

That's the opening for a fresh & comprehensive look at Ty, his parents & his wife, and the bullriding industry, culture & dangers, published Monday on the Globe & Mail website. There are photos & footage of Ty competing (including the 2014 accident that hurt him very badly), as well as shots of the Nicola Valley.

This interactive documentary lays out the sequences of events that culminated in Ty taking his own life — truly a must read for those who may not have known him well, but also for those who did. The reporting is clear & compassionate, and gives insight into the close-knit circle of bullriding. Story/reporting by Marty Klinkenberg, photography by Todd Korol.

Fractured Dictionary

GRANDPARENTS: the people who think your children are wonderful even though they are sure you are not raising them right.

HEARSAY: what toddlers do when anyone mutters a dirty word.

IMPREGNABLE: a women whose memory of labor is still vivid.

INDEPENDENT: how we want our children to be as long as they do everything we say.

Jogging Shoes Deciding to take up jogging, the middle-aged man was astounded by the wide selection of jogging shoes available at the local sports shoe store. While trying on a basic pair of jogging shoe, he noticed a minor feature and asked the clerk about it. "What's this little pocket thing here on the side for?" "Oh, that's to carry spare change so you can call your wife to come pick you up when you've jogged too far."
