Province requests wildfire assistance from the Fed Gov

With weeks of fire season remaining, and forecasts for continued hot, dry conditions that carry the risk of further lightning strikes, the prov'l govt has requested assistance from the fed. govt for its firefighting efforts.

As of Monday, Aug. 13, there were 27 evacuation orders affecting approx.
3100 people (1537 properties), 43 evacuation alerts impacting approximately 17,900 people (8909 properties). More than 3400 dedicated wildfire personnel are responding to 600 wildfires currently burning in all areas of the province. This includes BC Wildfire Service crews, contractors, municipal firefighters, industry personnel and out-of-province crews from throughout Canada, as well as Mexico, Australia and New Zealand.

BC is requesting: 200 self-sufficient personnel to perform the mop-up and patrol of contained fires, heavy-lift aircraft to re-position wildfire crews and equipment to new fire starts that threaten communities, aircraft for emergency transport of injured personnel and to help evacuate people in remote areas, should evacuation routes be compromised.

Thoughts from Outside the Box The New World conclusion

Oceans were highways and not barriers that divided ancient people, and as we've investigated in this article, many cultures from around the world, long before Columbus, set foot on American soil. Supposedly, the Greeks, the Indians (from India), the Egyptians, the Romans, the Africans, the Celts, the Carthaginians, the Vikings, and the Chinese are some of these cultures.

The evidence for international contact amid the ancient people is strong. Nevertheless, it's obvious there isn't enough since the education system is yet to adopt this view. Perhaps, within the next few decades, archeologists will uncover the required amount of proof. Until then, reaching into humanity's forgotten history is the New World. Traveling back into the past and rediscovering is an adventure, and facilitated by modern technology, a person can experience the journey while sitting in a coffee shop. This is a gift from The Creator. I forever salute The Great-Giver.

Next week I will present the case for an ancient world language. Supposedly, this language has been found around the world and the experts are still to decipher it.
