El Niño in full swing

With overnight temps above freezing — even on the Coq summit — our El Niño winter is in full swing.

Overall, a milder winter is expected across the province with fewer episodes of Arctic air compared to what we typically see, and fewer threats of significant snow in coastal areas & interior valleys.

Already this month, temperature highs resemble 2011 & 2013 with well-above freezing records (7° to 10°C), compared to 2016-2017 lows (-15° to -25°C), La Niña years.

Below normal precipitation is anticipated across southern BC with fewer storms and more extended periods of dry weather. Meanwhile, the north coast is expected to be wetter than normal.

However, the dry pattern will break down at times, allowing for an abundance of rain and mountain snow in relatively short periods of time. This will allow south coast rainfall totals to approach normal levels despite the overall drier pattern.

Environment Canada meteorologists say that, in the shorter term, approaching winter solstice on Friday, it looks like temperatures finally start to cool, returning to “kind of near seasonal values.”

In the longer term, preliminary indications point to an earlier arrival of spring weather.

On the wealth of BC's top-10 billionaires

According to Statistics Canada's Survey of Financial Security & Canadian Business magazine, the typical top-10 BC billionaire is 5,845 times wealthier than the typical BC household.

The combined net worth of the 10 wealthiest families in BC is $25 billion. Together, they have the same wealth as the bottom 1.32 million British Columbians combined, more than a quarter of the province's population. In fact, the typical top-10 BC billionaire is 5,845 times wealthier than the typical (median) BC household.

The 10 wealthiest families in BC together held $24.9 billion in net worth. The typical British Columbia family (the “median,” right in the middle of the wealth distribution) has a net worth of $429,400. In contrast, the median of the 10 billionaire families has a net worth of $2.51 billion.

Much of BC's wealthiest families' wealth is inherited. Seven of the 10 fortunes are now in their second generation or more, which means those billions aren't solely the result of hard work or earned success. All of the 10 wealthiest BC families have substantial investments in real estate or property development. Several of the families made their primary fortunes in real estate and development, while others only have side investments in this sector.

Top 10 wealthiest families & their net worth (in billions) in 2016: James Pattison $5.7, Aquilini family $3.3, Gaglardi Family $3.6, Lalji Family $3.1, Chip Wilson $2.9, Brandt Louie $2.1, Hassan Khosrowshahi $1.2, Caleb & Tom Chan $1.1, U. Gary Charlwood $1.0, Belkin Family $0.9.

The word “diputseromneve” may look ridiculous... but backwards, it's even more stupid... Words cannot express... how limited my vocabulary is.

Two old men are sitting on the deck of a cruise ship. The first one asks, “Have you read Marx?” The other one replies, “Yes. I believe that comes from sitting on these wicker chairs.” I'll never forget my granddad's last words to me just before he died... “Are you still holding the ladder!?”

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

Aries
March 21 - April 19
