Taking on the Indian Act — equality, finally.

Last Thursday, Aug 15, First Nations women, advocates, and communities celebrated a victory for gender equality that was 143 years in the making. The Govt of Canada finally brought the outstanding provisions of Bill S-3 into force, that will eliminate remaining sex-based inequities from the Indian Act and abolish the 1951 cut-off from the Indian Act registration provisions, which prohibited women being treated equally as transmitters of status, and denied their descendants status rights.

However, bringing the provisions of Bill S-3 into full effect has been an arduous & frustrating process. For women like Merritt lawyer Sharon McIvor, it is a result of years of fighting to be heard and treated equally. In 2010, Sharon McIvor filed a complaint to the United Nations Human Rights Committee over the remaining sex discrimination in the Indian Act. The Committee ruled that Canada is obligated to remove the discrimination and ensure that all First Nations women and their descendants are granted Indian status on the same footing as First Nations men and their descendants.

Sharon said: “...I am relieved, and happy. It has been a long struggle. We had to win the fight for equality for First Nations women both legally and politically, and it took a lot of work by a lot of people. The sex discrimination in the Indian Act has been a very effective tool of assimilation that even modern Canadian governments were not ready to give up. The sex discrimination has helped Canada keep the pool of ‘Indians’, to whom Canada owes fiduciary duties, small. I am proud to say that I have helped in my own way to bring this shameful part of colonial history to an end. I want to thank all the First Nations women who have worked for this day, my lawyer Gwen Brodsky, and all my allies, especially the Union of BC Indian Chiefs and the Canadian Feminist Alliance for International Action.”

MCU investigating after discovery of bodies of missing men

The Southeast District Major Crime Unit is investigating following the discovery of the bodies of two men on Saturday afternoon near Ashcroft.

On Aug. 17, Lytton RCMP were called to a rural area, north of Spences Bridge for a report that 2 bodies had been discovered. Investigators from SED MCU were called as circumstances at the scene led police to believe a crime was involved.

Sgt. Steve Rigby of SED MCU said, “We have been working closely with the BC Coroners Service to confirm the identities of the deceased as Ryan Provencher & Richard Scurr, who were reported missing from Surrey in mid-July. The RCMP is confirming their identities in an effort to advance our investigation into their deaths,” he continued.

The investigation also involves the Forensic Identification Section, Police Dog Service, and RCMP Air Services who removed the bodies from the rural location. SED MCU will continue to work with Surrey RCMP. The BC Coroners Service is also investigating these deaths and has no further info to release at this time.

If you have any info related to Ryan or Richard’s deaths, please contact the SED MCU tipline at 1-877-987-8477 or if you wish to remain anonymous, call Crimes-toppers at 1-800-222-8477.

Participants can try out archery, trap & skeet, big bore rifle, 22 rifles, pistols. And there’s food — hamburgers, fresh buttered corn, bbq european hot dog & bratwurst, pop, water & coffee. All activities and food are free. Door prizes include office storage cabinets, end table & more. Everyone welcome!

Thinking outside the box Worldian

Beyond all of woman and man’s designs, we belong to what is forever truthful, never fallible. As you, I am a child of the natural world first. I am a Worldian.

Why? It’s simple. The Universe created my earthly entity dependent on earthly things. Besides, the designs that separate us and our First Mother were created by woman and man and not nature. They were designed by mortals and creatures potentially fallible.

For those reasons I give my allegiance to our First Mother before any destructive design of the built world.

Loyal I am to my First Mother, but unduly, the decision-makers do not and did not see the Earth in the same context. They did not see beyond themselves to know themselves and to comprehend the bigger picture. They do not understand themselves as children of our First Mother.

The contemporary world reflects their attitude. The manufactured information buries the natural and restricts a person from translating the information this realm holds. Far too many of us weren’t taught to love the natural world.

Perhaps that’s why we occasionally attack the generations not yet born, and why we destroy the natural world that rightfully belongs to tomorrow. Please appreciate that we have the power to influence what the future faces will grow to understand and to experience, and it feels as if we prefer they translate a dead planet.

In a democracy it's your vote that counts; in feudalism, it's your Count that votes.

Scrimping and Saving After years of scrimping and saving, a husband told his wife the good news: “Honey, we’ve finally saved enough money to buy what we started saving for in 1979.” “You mean a brand-new Cadillac?” she asked eagerly. “No,” said the husband, “a 1979 Cadillac.”
