MERRITT MORNING MARKET

MIDWEEK EDITION — SEPTEMBER 18, 2019 #3329

News, opinion, community events since 1996! Box 2199, Merritt, BC V1K 1B8

Italian plum season

Every fall I celebrate the fantastic local crop of Italian prune plums — which are abundant in this valley... because of the climate, and because of those who figured out that they thrive here!

One such, I call him an 'urban orchardist' because of his many trees scattered across several properties, is Gaetano Dalessandro. He is the 'plum whisperer' for both trees & fresh fruit.

The season is winding down now, so if you're interested in this valley's secret orchard crop — and if you're not blessed to have a tree or 6 of your own — contact Gaetano at 250-378-4771, or you might find him at the pull-out on Hwy 8 across from the Lions. Then check for recipes here, or past ones on our website.

Letter A big thank you

c/o our MMIWG

The people who were there for me in every way. Wow, I hope I never left anyone out. Buzz Manuel Jr & Sr, Dan Manuel, Erica Funk, Robin Brodie, Duane Tom, Phillip and Dee Chillihtzia, Stewart Michel, Tracey Wimbush, Jeanette Armstrong from Penticton Band, Lori Wilson from ONA Westbank, Norma Hall, Evelyn Antoine, Shane Gottfriedson, Chief Lee Spahan, Chief Marcel Shackelly, Philip Manuel, Walter Archachan, Darlene Saddleman, Const. Chester Williams, as well as other Merritt RCMP members.

Wow, thanks, you gals and guys are the greatest people! Wow, thanks a million!
— Fr. Gilbert 3d't Mike

Thoughts from outside the box

The Noble Army: Part 2 of 3

Not only is the Khalsa a community of warriors, the Khalsa is also a community of saints. Each member is humble, kind, gentle, loving, peaceful, fearless, forgiving, God-oriented, communally aware, soft-spoken, rational, truthful, mentally disciplined, knowledgeable, poetic, worldly, and detached from the self and Maya. The Khalsa only unsheathes the sword as a shield and not for secular gain. Puran Singh once wrote:

"Once it is said The Khalsa occupied the throne of Delhi when the Mughal Emperor submitted and acknowledged the power of The Khalsa, the leader Jassa Singh said — 'Ah! The Khalsa is atit (untouched by Maya). What has it to do with thrones' — and gave the throne back to the Mughals."

"No one need be afraid of The Khalsa of Guru Gobind Singh, that it would ever think of seeking the bones of material objects. The eyes of The Khalsa are fixed heavenward."

As dictated by Guru Gobind Singh to the great Sikh scholar, Bhai Nand Lal Goya, Goya writes in his book, Tankhahnama:

"The Khalsa is he who protects the poor, who destroys the wicked, who recites the Name, who fights the enemy, who concentrates his mind on the Name, who is detached from all other ties, who rides the horse, who fights every day, who bears arms, who promotes dharam, and who dies for his faith."

The famous Sikh historian, Rattan Singh Bhangu, writes in his book, Pracheen Panth Prakash, the following on the Khalsa's creation.

"The perfect Guru, the Tenth, created the Khalsa Panth in this manner, so that they must wage a war against oppression."

Guru Gobind Ji further describes the Khalsa as "he is whose heart burns unflickering the Lamp of Naam, day and night, know him the Khalsa, the pure!" As recorded by Puran Singh. This connection to the essence of God is the reason the Khalsa's history is full of Singhs able to overcome incredible odds and achieve superhuman deeds, akin to those performed by Banda Singh, Deep Singh, Hari Singh, and Jassa Singh. As the Jedi draws power from the Force, the Singh draws power from the Lamp of Naam (the Primal Energy that pervades within all known and unknown). To be continued...

— Mike Bhangu, Amazon best-selling author

English Class TEACHER: Jean, what does trickle mean? JEAN: To run slowly.

TEACHER: good. Annie, what does anecdote mean? ANNIE: It's a short, funny tale.

TEACHER: Well done. Now, Rita, give me a sentence with both of these words in it.

RITA: Our dog trickled down the street wagging her anecdote.
