State of emergency extended — again

The BC government has formally extended the provincial state of emergency, allowing Mike Farnworth, Minister of Public Safety and Solicitor General, to continue to use extraordinary powers under the Emergency Program Act to support the Province's COVID-19 pandemic response.

It has been extended through the end of the day on July 21, 2020.

The original declaration was on March 18, after Dr. Bonnie Henry, provincial health officer, declared a public health emergency the previous day. The provincial government can extend the period of a declaration made by the minister responsible for further periods of up to 14 days at a time.

Call to artists Conayt's memorial to MMIWG and LGBTQ2S

Conayt Friendship Society invites artists of the Nicola Valley to submit a design for a memorial in honour of Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls and LGBTQ2S Individuals.

The memorial will serve to honour the lives and legacies of Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls and LGBTQ2S Individuals; increase awareness about Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls and LGBTQ2S Individuals; and contribute to the healing of community and family.

All artistic designs will be considered. Deadline for submission is August 14, and a panel will review and judge submissions by Aug. 31. Once a design is selected, Conayt will work with the artist to complete the memorial. Deadline for memorial completion will be November 30, 2020.

The memorial dedication & celebration will be held in January 2021, exact location of memorial is yet to be decided. FMI email womenswellness@conayt.com

Thoughts from outside the box As Aliens Behave the Filthy Rich

We assume that the filthy rich will show benevolence. But the truth might not be so appetizing.

Motivations such as a want for more money, resources, power, and influence fuel their tanks. These motivations prevent the distribution of wealth and their minds from valuing the little guy or gal.

These types of motivations can never be unregulated, and if they are, it'll be similar to a T-Rex wandering New York City on an empty stomach. Maybe, that's why the cost to live has skyrocketed over the past few decades, wages haven't kept par, and the savings account is quickly going the way of the dinosaur.

According to Murray Dobin, in his book "The Myth of the Good Corporate Citizen", in 1994, the Ekos research and polling group interviewed 1,000 elite members of the Canadian nation and 2,500 members of the public. The two groups were given twenty-two value choices for government action and "virtually all of the policy values related to equality, social justice, collective rights, full employment, regulation of business, and even personal privacy were low on the elite's list of priorities and high on the general public's." What this suggests is that the wants and the ideas of the general public are different than those of the super rich.

Moreover, the rich are only human and it's difficult for any person to relate to a lifestyle that isn't experienced or learned. This also prevents them from valuing the little person. You see, the rich as a whole are disassociated with the lifestyles of the majority because they compete and socialize with other rich people. Just as you and I have a circle we operate within, so do they. And just as you and I have little idea of how they daily operate, they have little idea of us.

— by nonfiction author, Mike Bhangu

Pet Mouse My pet mouse Elvis died today... He was caught in a trap.

No Jogging 2014: Didn't jog. 2015: Didn't jog. 2016: Didn't jog. 2017: Didn't jog. 2018: Didn't jog. 2019: Didn't jog. 2020: Still haven't jogged. This is a running joke.

Door Sign A guy tells his psychiatrist, "I always have this weird dream at night. I am locked in a room with a door on which there is a sign. I try to push it with all my strength, but no matter how hard I try, it won't budge." The psychiatrist muses, "Interesting. But tell me, what does the sign on the door say?" The guy replies, "It says, 'Pull.'"
