Charges against Gerald Klassen in 1993 death of Julie McLeod stayed

In a story on May 1st the KTW reported that "BC Prosecution Service spokesperson Daniel McLaughlin told Kamloops This Week the Crown issued a stay of proceedings on April 28, bringing the criminal proceedings against Gerald Klassen [in the death of Julie McLeod in 1993 at Nicola Lake], to a close.

"Due to inconclusive and insufficient forensic evidence, Crown prosecutors have stayed murder charges against a Merritt man who spent 26 years in prison, rather than pursue a new trial," reported KTW. "McLaughlin said the Crown decided against a retrial as three new pathologist reports examining the original evidence and Klassen's file supported the conclusion the forensic evidence at trial must now be regarded as inconclusive and, therefore, insufficient to support a conviction.

He said the BCPS in the past year reviewed the file materials in light of the new forensic opinions obtained between 2019 and 2020.

"That review is now complete and BCPS has concluded that the charge against Mr. Klassen no longer meets the standards required pursuant to Crown policy to proceed with a prosecution," McLaughlin said. — KTW

This outcome doesn't sit well with everyone in Merritt, especially the family of Julie McLeod.

It's been a long and emotional 30 years since their tragic loss of Julie. Members of the family have submitted victim statements at every opportunity since 2017, when the UBC's Innocence Project, which handles claims of wrongful conviction, applied to have Klassen's conviction reviewed by the federal Justice Dept, citing new forensic reports that cast doubt on the findings of the pathologist who testified at trial.

"It's over now, he's just out", said one family member. "Julie's death devastated all of us, especially her father," she said.

BC Family Doctor Day 2023

BC Family Doctor Day, as proclaimed by the government for the sixth year running, happens annually on May 19 and provides an opportunity to recognize "the incredible efforts of family physicians practising across BC".

Each year, five family physicians receive the patient-nominated My Family Doctor Award, which celebrates the doctor-patient relationship that supports good health. This year among the recipients was Dr. Ella Monro of Princeton.

This BC Family Doctor Day comes at a time when primary care is still in a state of crisis. "We're optimistic that our collective advocacy efforts are being recognized and that the Longitudinal Family Physician (LFP) payment model introduced in February will provide more equitable remuneration for family physicians and better recognition of the value of longitudinal, relationship-based care." FMI www.bccfp.bc.ca/

Can You Hear Me Now Matt: "It's times like this that I wish I'd listened to what my Dad always said." Jake: "What did he say?" "I don't know, I wasn't listening."

Stuntmen A van carrying a dozen movie stuntmen on the way to a film location in the mountains spun out of control on the icy road, crashed through a guard-rail, rolled down a 90-foot embankment, turned over, and burst into flames. There were no injuries.
