globalnews.ca/ Blown tires, damaged vehicles from potholes on Coq

Drivers travelling the Coquihalla Highway say massive potholes are causing costly damage, leaving some motorists stranded and frustrated.

Mario Gedicke said that over two separate trips, he says he struck large potholes that destroyed three tires. The most recent incident left him stuck in the dark with no cell service and an unexpected hotel stay in Hope. "All in all, I'm probably in it for about $1,800," Gedicke said.

He says there were no signs alerting drivers to the danger. "There was nothing indicating that there were potholes there. I hit it hard, it went flat and I had to call 911."

Other motorists report similar experiences along the stretch of Hwy 5 between Othello and Hope.

Kevin Widmann says his vehicle was seriously damaged after hitting a pothole just outside Hope. "There was a huge pothole in the right lane. We hit it, our car went boom and bounced, and our tire actually came completely off," Widmann said.

The Ministry of Transportation says heavy rainfall in December caused rapid deterioration of road surfaces on highways 1, 3 and 5 near the junction east of Hope. The ministry says repair work is planned for next week.

"Potholes form because of the freeze-and-thaw conditions. Drivers are reminded to drive according to conditions and be aware of changing conditions, including potholes," said the Ministry.

Some drivers, however, say the damage has been there for far too long. "The potholes have been there for weeks. Tire blow-outs are dangerous," said Marcus Halliday. "More needed to be done sooner."

While pylons now mark some of the worst potholes, drivers are being urged to slow down and leave extra space between vehicles. "In these road conditions, you've got to slow down and give your distance so you don't hit the same pothole the car in front of you hits."
